

We are pleased to welcome Mrs. Flora Brunswick to our faculty as the 10th Grade Honors English teacher. Mrs. Brunswick holds a B.A. in English Language and Literature from the University of Haifa, Israel, and an M.A. in Education and Human Development from George Washington University in Washington, DC.

She has taught language arts, social studies, and curriculum design in Israel, and at the Yeshiva of Greater Washington in Silver Spring, Maryland.

Mrs. Brunswick is a member of Congregation Adat Yeshurun. She wrote a weekly column on Jewish history in the shul bulletin for several years. For the last five years she has been giving a shiur to the community women at shul on Shabbos afternoon. She also serves at the Adat mikvah several nights a week.

Mrs. Brunswick's educational philosophy is holistic, integrating Jewish philosophy, history, and economics into the analysis of select literary texts. The goal is to understand the makeup of mature and responsible adults in hedonistic societies
